Background/Supporting Information: In 1996 the City of Minneapolis, Hennepin County and the Minneapolis Public Schools entered into a Joint Powers Agreement to develop and support the Minneapolis Curfew Truancy Center. The City provides fiscal oversight, and the Minneapolis Urban League operates the Center funded through contracts that are managed by MDHFS. The Joint Powers Agreement spells out that each party is responsible for 1/3 of the operational costs of the Center. The above action allows the City of Minneapolis to receive the Minneapolis School's share of those costs.
